Dear Reverend Linnane and Chairman Hanway:

On March 25, 2009, the Maryland Higher Education Commission approved the request from Loyola College in Maryland for university status and name change. This approval was required to meet Code of Maryland Regulation 13B.02.02.04C which states, "A degree-granting institution may not change its institutional designation without the approval of the Commission." The Commission understands that the university status and name change will become effective on August 19, 2009. Should that date change please inform the Commission. As of August 19, 2009, the Commission will reflect the change in its inventory, its publications, and its website.

I wish you continued success.

Sincerely,

James E. Lyons, Sr.
Secretary of Higher Education
