Many comprehensive universities are looking for ways to capture, preserve, and make available the intellectual assets of their institutions. The Berkeley Electronic Press offers a hosted repository platform for this purpose. With its Digital Commons, bepress helps institutions collect, showcase, and preserve scholarly output. Some Affinity Group libraries are already using this service. This session will provide information about the service and offer opportunity for in-depth discussion with a bepress representative as well as Affinity Group members who are currently using the service.

Moderator: Lewis Miller, Butler University

Speaker: Dave Stout, Berkeley Electronic Press - www.bepress.com
