THE 2019 HANNA GELDRICH-LEFFMAN COLLOQUIUM ON LANGUAGE, LITERATURE AND SOCIETY

Topic: “The Role of Literature and Philosophy in the Formation of Class Identity”

The Department's annual colloquium on Language, Literature and Society will take place on Wednesday, April 10, 2019 in McGuire Hall West from 11.00 until 4.00.

Dr. Richard Blum (Loyola University Maryland), Dr. Olivier Delers (University of Richmond) and Dr. Richard Rosa (Duke University) will present their thoughts and engage students and faculty in discussion.

Presentation: Understanding Islamophobia
Peter Hopkins, Newcastle University, UK
5:00 P.M. Tuesday, April 9, 2019
McGuire Hall East

This presentation explores the complexity of Islamophobia focusing on how it operates and what enables it as well as who it affects and what its impacts are. Reflecting upon a number of research projects about racism, Islamophobia and Muslim identities, Dr. Hopkins explores the lived experiences of younger people who experience and negotiate everyday racism and Islamophobia. He also considers how to challenge Islamophobia and how it can be reported.

ESSAY CONTEST
The essay contest will be held on March 27 (3.00-4.00) and 28 (2.00-3.00); students will have a choice of which day to choose from. Students must first apply by filling out applications from the Language Learning Center in MH 443; they are due to Natalie in MH 454 by March 20.
Chinese Minor

Fun and rewarding! The Department of Modern Languages and Literatures is very pleased to announce the newly launched Chinese minor. This program provides extraordinary learning opportunities for members of the Loyola community who are interested in doing business, exchanging information, exploring history and economy, and/or building resumes in Chinese-speaking regions. We focus on improving proficiency in Chinese language and introducing Chinese literature and culture to prepare for leadership in today’s increasingly multilingual and globalizing world.

Currently, students taking the Chinese minor have the following options to complete the 6 course requirement (18 credits):

1. Two 200-level or 300-level CI courses;
2. Two 300-level CI courses;
3. One 200-level CI course, one 300-level CI course OR
   One 200/300/400-level ML course;
4. One China-related ML course

For help in planning your Chinese minor coursework and for more information, please consult with Dr. Yu Zhang (yzhang1@loyola.edu).
