Family Tree volunteers represent all kinds of people, from receptionists, social workers and teachers, to housewives and retirees. And they come to volunteer for many reasons. Some “just want to give back”. Others have been touched by abuse or neglect and want to help, while others work with children professionally and understand the need for prevention.

All of our volunteers receive free training, a quarterly newsletter, and the satisfaction of knowing they have made a difference in the lives of our children and families.
