

Beyond Words: The Power of Nonverbal Communication in Teaching

Wednesday, Aug. 27, 9 a.m. – 3 p.m.

McGuire Hall, Evergreen Campus

Reception hosted by Amy Wolfson, Ph.D., vice president for academic affairs, immediately following the workshop on the Humanities Center Porch

Time	Activity	Who
9 - 9:30 a.m.	Breakfast / Welcome	Peggy O'Neill, Ph.D., writing department Amy Wolfson, Ph.D., vice president for academic affairs
9:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.	Beyond Words: The Power of Non-Verbal Communication in Teaching This is an interactive workshop aimed at helping instructors enhance their effectiveness in the classroom.	Kendall Zoller, Ed.D., specializes in nonverbal communicative intelligence, adult learning theory, and inquiry models of learning. His international research focuses on identifying nonverbal patterns in the learning environment and their influences on thinking, memory, and learning. He has more than 20 years of experience as a teacher, academic administrator, coach, and presenter working with a diverse range of teachers, university faculty and staff, and community and corporate leaders. He is a Cohort I Fellow and mentor to the National Academy for Science and Mathematics Education Leadership, and the former director of the Center for Mathematics and Science Education at California State University, Sacramento.
12:30 - 1:30 p.m.	Lunch / Information Fair	Tables and representatives from various offices and programs on campus will be available for Q&A and have updated information at tables during lunch. Participants include CCSJ, LND Library, research and sponsored programs, sustainability initiatives, and technology services.
1:30 - 2:30 p.m.	Loyola Faculty Panel Response: Nonverbal Communication at Loyola Participants will respond to Dr. Zoller from their experience and expertise, especially as it relates to Loyola students and faculty.	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Ronald Gallop, Ph.D., speech-language pathology/audiology• Andrea Giampetro-Meyer, J.D., law and social responsibility• Matthew Kirkhart, Ph.D., psychology• Tasha Lewis, Ph.D., modern languages and literatures• Afra Hersi, Ph.D., teacher education
3 - 4 p.m.	Faculty Reception	Hosted by Amy Wolfson, Ph.D., vice president for academic affairs, on the Humanities Center Porch