

Job Description

Loyola University Maryland has the privilege of welcoming international and exchange students from over 35 countries. The Global Greyhound team, formerly known as the International Student Orientation Committee (ISOC), was formed to provide an opportunity for Loyola students to continue their international experiences as well as to serve in a global leader role. Along with the Office of International Student Services (OISS), the Global Greyhound team welcomes all new international students to Loyola. Being a part of this team is a fun and rewarding way to further enhance your abroad/international experience as well as serve as an ambassador to the incoming international students at Loyola. OISS is currently accepting applications from the class of 2020 to be part of the new Global Greyhound team for the Fall 2019 - Spring 2020 semesters. After the New International Student Orientation is over, Global Greyhounds will maintain contact with the students throughout the semester. Throughout the academic year beginning in August, Global Greyhounds will be assisting OISS with International Student Orientation programs, facilitating off-campus day-trips to Baltimore-Washington and surrounding areas, conducting shopping shuttles, and participating in welcome and farewell receptions for the international students. In addition, Global Greyhounds will serve as a peer mentor and global leader, as well as a valuable resource and point of contact to the students.
