Who We Are

CapitolHill Consortium for Counseling & Consultation, LLC (CCCC) is a large multidisciplinary group of psychologists, social workers, professional counselors, and marriage and family therapists working collaboratively to provide holistic and evidence-based therapy to help clients address the myriad of challenges in their personal, interpersonal, educational, and professional lives. CCCC is committed to providing high quality, affordable, accessible, and culturally responsive care to those in our community. CCCC has been an externship site for over 20 years. Additionally, CCCC is a member of the Mid-Atlantic Internship Consortium (MAIC), an APA-accredited predoctoral internship program. CCCC also trains postdoctoral fellows. The Psychology Training Program at CCCC emphasizes professionalism, diversity, and a multidisciplinary approach to the practice of psychology.

As a group private practice, CCCC has multiple locations: Capitol Hill/Eastern Market in Washington, DC; Crystal City/Arlington, in Virginia; and Silver Spring/Bowie, in Maryland. At this time, practicum and intern candidates will only be placed at the Crystal City or Capitol Hill locations (this may be subject to change). CCCC is dedicated to making mental health services accessible to the communities in which we are embedded. We accept a wide array of insurance plans in addition to self-pay and sliding scales. CCCC serves a diverse clientele with an emphasis on community-based care and making mental health services available for everyone. CCCC's clinicians and trainees provide individual therapy to children, adolescents, adults and geriatric populations. Trainees are also trained to work with couples and families and have opportunities to facilitate groups.

CCCC also provides personal and professional coaching for businesses and organizations. Trainees are fully integrated into the clinical and administrative aspects of CCCC and have opportunities to participate in didactics, group consultations, clinical meetings, and other training opportunities. Trainees at CCCC learn the nuances of the business side of private practice, and are responsible for carrying their own therapy caseload, as determined by their supervisors.

The Externship/Practicum Program at CCCC

CCCC offers a clinical externship (practicum) to doctoral students enrolled in a PhD or PsyD program. The practicum is 9 months long and runs from the first week of September (start date TBD based on Labor Day) until the end of June with an orientation during the last week in August. Students have the option to extend their externship through the summer if they so choose. Students accumulate over 750 total hours, and 150+ face-to-face

Training Activities

The practicum position features an intermediate and/or advanced externship training experience, integrating primarily therapy hours with potential opportunities for testing. All externs are required to be at practicum (in-person or virtually as determined by CCCC) for 16-24 hours/week. The primary aim of the externship is to provide supervised

Trainees will not be expected to commute between offices within the same training day. Schedules are flexible based on room availability and supervisor availability and are determined over the course of the summer prior to the start of the training year.
